

Bradley Arant Boult Cummings LLP

At Bradley, success is built on deep knowledge, strategic problem-solving, and strong client relationships. The firm's Dallas attorneys are known for their exceptional legal work across a range of practice areas, earning them well-deserved recognition among the city's best lawyers.

As office managing partner for this talented group, John Bonnet is a trusted advisor in complex business transactions, including mergers, acquisitions, and debt and equity financings. Representing companies, buyers, boards of directors and investors, he is a formidable force who helps clients successfully navigate intricate deals.

Labor and employment attorney Jennifer Trulock advises employers on compliance and defends clients against workplace claims to maintain strong and productive business environments. Greg Hidalgo routinely helps public and private clients successfully navigate complex mergers and acquisitions transactions, as well as equity financings, joint ventures, and corporate governance issues, utilizing not only his legal skills from over 31 years of practice, but also his financial accounting skills developed as a former CPA with a major accounting firm prior to his legal career.

Armed with extensive knowledge of business disputes, William Snyder is a skilled litigator who helps clients effectively manage transactions related to securities, real estate, oil and gas, private equity, healthcare, and intellectual property. Tonya "Toni" Meier handles challenging litigation in courts throughout Texas and offers strategic guidance on commercial real estate transactions, acquisitions, dispositions, and leasing matters to ensure successful client outcomes.

With significant experience advising U.S. House and Senate offices and congressional committees, Shae Armstrong assists clients with public-private partnerships, real estate and infrastructure projects, and high-profile developments across the state. Ladd Hirsch brings more than 30 years of experience in complex litigation and arbitration on behalf of high-net-worth clients, and has earned a reputation as a solution-oriented attorney who adeptly handles high-stakes business disputes.

Wendi Rogaliner leads the healthcare team in Dallas, representing a wide range of providers in regulatory, compliance, and complex transactional matters, with notable experience leading Independent Review Organization (IRO) engagements). Kyle Owens is highly regarded for his work in banking and finance, helping clients in the financial services industry manage change, navigate risk, and solve problems. Evangeline Lalangas enhances the firm's healthcare practice with her unique experience working with the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, bringing valuable insight to not only the legal issues surrounding the healthcare industry, but also complex policy and business concerns.

With a focus on dependable responsiveness and building strong relationships, this elite team of attorneys combines legal experience and knowledge with a sophisticated understanding of industries to find strategic solutions specifically tailored to clients' business goals. Bradley congratulates these skilled attorneys for repeat recognition among D Magazine's Best Lawyers in Dallas.
