PEDIATRIC DENTISTRY

Dr. Reena Kuba and Dr. Alvin Michael have worked together for many years. Second-generation Indian Americans and native Texans, Dr. Kuba was born in Dallas and Dr. Michael was born in Mesquite. Both doctors were educated in the Dallas-Fort Worth area and are board certified by the American Board of Pediatric Dentistry.

Dr. Michael is hard to miss; standing at 6'8", he may be the tallest pediatric dentist you'll ever meet! Growing up with a father who worked as a mechanic, Dr. Michael discovered he loved working with his hands whenever he helped his dad around the garage. Time spent shadowing his cousin, who is also a dentist, showed Dr. Michael not only how great it is to care for patients, but also reinforced the importance of oral health. Additionally, Dr. Michael has always loved working with kids. He spent countless hours babysitting young family members and coaching youth basketball. Pediatric dentistry offered the perfect blend of these experiences, which is why he has so much fun at work. In his free time, he likes to be around his friends and large extended family, exercise, and play basketball.

Dr. Kuba's path to pediatric dentistry surprised her more than anyone else in her circle. As a teen with "Bugs Bunny teeth," she experienced the transformation from a shy kid who never smiled to one with more confidence after she received orthodontic treatment. She then realized she wanted to help other kids have a similar positive dental experience. Upon entering dental school, Dr. Kuba didn't declare a specific specialty at first, but after taking her first pediatric dentistry course, she realized she had a passion for pediatric dentistry. Years later, she returned to the same dental school to teach dental students that same introductory course, and she volunteered as a part-time professor for 10 years. In her spare time, Dr. Kuba enjoys serving as a consultant to several dental boards, teaching, and baking. Snuggling with her two daughters and husband in front of the TV is her all-time favorite activity!

The best thing about their dental office is the warm, family-like environment. Both doctors enjoy learning through continued education and providing high-quality, compassionate, and customized care for their patients and their families.
