ENDODONTICS

Through the years, Quality Centered Endodontics has established itself in Dallas as an endodontic practice dedicated to highly exceptional care using state-of-the-art technology. Dr. Garcia founded the practice in order to provide Dallas with the finest endodontic (root canal and root surgery) treatment available in a comfortable and courteous atmosphere.

Dr. Garcia completed his graduate dental training at Louisiana State University School of Dentistry. Aware of his passion for the field of endodontics, he pursued specialty training in endodontics, along with a master's degree at the University of Michigan School of Dentistry in Ann Arbor, Michigan. During his graduate training, he taught clinical endodontics at the University of Michigan, and upon graduation, he underwent a rigorous examination process and became a board-certified endodontist and Diplomate of the American Board of Endodontics.

The practice is also excited to have Dr. Robert Hale join in 2021. Dr. Hale is an experienced endodontist also focusing on conventional and surgical endodontics. Dr. Hale attended the University of Nevada School of Dental Medicine and while there, he became passionate about endodontics and completed his endodontic residency at Baylor College of Dentistry in Dallas, Texas.

Both Dr. Garcia and Dr. Hale continue to gain knowledge and expertise through courses every year to make sure they are on the cutting edge of their field. Aside from using ZEISS microscope magnification for every case performed, their office is also equipped with 3D imaging (cone beam computed tomography), allowing them to provide a more targeted, precise, and effective clinical treatment.

Dr. Garcia and Dr. Hale are honored to be selected among D Magazine's Best Dentists in Dallas and take this the opportunity to thank their peers for selecting them to this prestigious group.
